View Discussion Improve Article Save Article Like Article ReadDiscussView Discussion Improve Article Save Article Like Article We all have come across apps that have a Bottom Navigation Bar. Some popular examples include Instagram, WhatsApp, etc. Below is the preview of a sample Bottom Navigation Bar: You must have seen the implementation of Bottom Navigation with the help of fragments. But, here we are going to implement Bottom Navigation with the help of activities in Android Studio. What we are going to build in this application? Here is a sample video of what we are going to build in this application. Note that we will be using Java language to make this application. 1: Create a New Project Open a new project. We will be working on Empty Activity with language as Java. Leave all other options unchanged. Name the application at your convenience. There will be two default files named activity_main.xml and MainActivity.java. If you don't know how to create a new project in Android Studio then you can refer to How to Create/Start a New Project in Android Studio? Step 2. Adding required dependency Navigate to Gradle Scripts > gradle_scripts(module) and add the following dependency in it. implementation 'com.google.android.material:material:1.0.0' Step 3. Working on XML files Navigate to app > res > drawable > right-click > new > drawable resource file and name it as "selector". Use the following code in selector.xml file. Navigate to the app > res > layout > activity_main.xml and add the below code to that file. Below is the code for the activity_main.xml file. Navigate to app > new > right-click > new > activity > empty activity. Name it as "About" and use the following code in activity_about.xml file
